DETAILED ACTION

Continued Examination Under 37 CFR 1.114

A request for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, including the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e), was filed in this application after final rejection. Since this application is eligible for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, and the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e) has been timely paid, the finality of the previous Office action has been withdrawn pursuant to 37 CFR 1.114. Applicant's submission filed on 11/26/2007 has been entered.

Response to Amendment

Claims 1, 3 – 4, 9 – 12, 14 – 15 and 20 – 22 are pending in this Office Action.

None of the pending claims has been amended.

Claims 2, 5 – 8, 13 and 16 – 19 have been canceled previously.

Response to Arguments

No arguments have been presented.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 101

35 U.S.C. 101 reads as follows:

Whoever invents or discovers any new and useful process, machine, manufacture, or composition of matter, or any new and useful improvement thereof, may obtain a patent therefor, subject to the conditions and requirements of this title.

Claim 12 and its dependent claims are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 101 because the claimed invention is directed to non-statutory subject matter. For an apparatus to be physical object, at least one recited element must be hardware (for example, a computer-readable storage medium to store program instructions and a processor to execute instructions). If all elements would have been reasonably interpreted in light of the disclosure by one of ordinary skill as software alone, the claim is directed to software per se and is non-statutory.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1, 3 – 4, 9 – 12, 14 – 15 and 20 – 22 rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over U.S. Patent Number 5,870,552 issued to Dozier et al (hereinafter “Dozier”) in view of U.S. Patent Number 5,832,497 issued to Jeffrey C. Taylor (hereinafter “Taylor”).

Regarding claim 1, Dozier discloses,

A method for creating a personalized home page on a web site comprising:
presenting a entry page to a user for user entry of desired content into a web server, said web server including an associated database (Figure 10b, et seq.);

Art Unit: 2166

receiving said entry of desired content from said user (Figure 10b, column 3 lines 50 – 55, et seq.);

providing HTML front-ending tools for facilitating said user being able to add said desired content to the database and index the entry in a user-defined category using a web browser without the need for any additional software necessary to interact with said publicly accessible database (column 16 lines 41 – 44, column 7 lines 63 – 64: web browser is a software that allows a user to access and view HTML document, hence, the software in Dozier can be interpreted as a web browser, et seq.);

a user account including said desired content (Figures 10b and 10d, et seq.); and creating a personalized home page including said desired content (Figure 8a and 8b, column 3 line 42, et seq.).

Dozier does not explicitly disclose, associating user account on said web site with said home page, said account including desired content and an associated user ID and password.

However, Taylor discloses associating user account on said web site with said home page, said account including said desired content and an associated user ID and password (column 3 lines 61 – 62, column 4 lines 54 – 58, column 5 lines 40 – 41, et seq.). At the time of the present invention, it would have been obvious to a person of ordinary skill in the data processing art to combine the two references because Taylor's user account with desired content, user ID and password would have enabled Dozier's overall system to have security features that would specify who may access the contents. The combination would result in a secure system operable to lead a user through certain steps and parameters to a search/organization by categories.

Regarding claim 3, Dozier discloses said desired content include non-textual information (Figure 7, et seq.).

Regarding claim 4, Dozier discloses said non-textual information includes graphics (Figure 7, et seq.).

Regarding claim 9, Dozier discloses said account further includes personalized information (Figures 10b and 10d, et seq.).

Regarding claim 10, Dozier discloses said personalized information includes a URL to the user's homepage (Figures 10b and 10d, et seq.).

Regarding claim 11, Taylor discloses the act of password-protecting said account (column 3 lines 61 – 62, column 4 lines 54 – 58, column 5 lines 40 – 41, et seq.).

Claims 12, 14 – 15 and 20 – 22 are rejected based on the same rational discussed in claims 1, 3 – 4 and 9 – 11 rejections.
